Feast of Dedication of the Archbasilica of the Most Holy Savior

Today we celebrate the feast of the dedication of the first Christian Church which took place 324 AD! Although it has been rebuilt many times during the last 2000 years it remains the Cathedral of Rome and of the Pope—NOT St. Peters! The Lateran Palace was given to the Catholic Church by Constantine and dedicated as the first Christian Church. On the Facade is carved the inscription “The Mother and Head of all the churches in the city and the world”. It was the first Church given public consecration. Five ecumenical councils were held there. It contains a relic of a wooden altar believed to once have been used by St. Peter himself! “Terribile est locus iste! Hic domus Dei est et porta coeli” “Awesome is this place, it is the house of God & gate of heaven!” (From the entrance hymn)
